How to Choose Books for Babies

Look for books with:

- a few words per page
- simple, clear pictures
- high contrast colours or black and white pictures
- characters with large eyes, or things that look like eyes, such as wheels
- photos - babies love to look at faces!

Before they can use their hands, babies explore the world through their mouths. Don't worry if your baby likes to chew the pages.

Tip: Little babies have little attention spans. It's better to read several times a day for just a few minutes than to force a longer session.

The Port Moody Library offers a variety of free Baby Sing & Learn programs throughout the year. Check our website for days and times. www.library.portmoody.ca
