

Art Exhibition

École Moody Middle School of the Arts

May 1 to 31

The papier mache edibles are part of a series of sculptures fashioned this year many of which can still be seen hanging delicately from various perches in the school's front foyer. Teacher Chris Zimmer states "Inspired to create in 3 dimensions something good enough to eat, our students showed considerable skill in producing works both colourful and accurate".

Working on canvas, under the direction of art teacher Ramona Chan, grade eight students have been encouraged to mix media, colour and tone to create works which represent a culmination of all the themes and techniques they have experienced in their three years at École Moody Middle.
